FARMERS SAVINGS

ROLAND. IOWA

Capital, $25,000.00

Surplus & Profits, $12,000.00

This bank is prepared to do such banking for its customers as is usually carried on in a farm community. It will give you as high a rate of interest on your savings deposits as any conservative bank in this section of Iowa. It will attend to your collections, look after your taxes, collect your farm rents, and extend you the usual courtesies of loans at moderate interest.

Our land department lists and sells both wild lands in the northwest and well improved farms in this locality.

WHEN it comes time to replenish stock, the good house-wife carefully considers the merits of different brands of liniments. In deciding to specify C—H—L she uses that keen discrimination born of education and experience, and, like many others, gives preference to a brand of established character and purity. Your druggist will respect your expressed preference, we believe, in every instance; if not please communicate with me.

The above illustration represents Mrs. D. C. Johnson's big hatch of 2,330 chicks July 21, 1906, and which won for her from the Chief Magistrate of the State, Gov. A. B. Cummins, the well earned title of "Poultry Queen of Iowa." Mrs. Johnson appears in the center back ground.

Mrs. Johnson receives so many letters of inquiry that she has found it necessary to publish a book on "How to Hatch, Brood, Feed and prevent Chicks from dying in the Shell." A long title but one that covers the question of success. This Book sells for one dollar. ## 1908-9....THE IOWA HOMESTEAD.....1908-9

Des Moines, Iowa

Is the foremost weekly agricultural journal in the world. The Homestead is used and conducted by actual farmers who reside upon and operate their own farms. It has, in addition to able editorials on the vital agricultural problems of the day, departments devoted to horticulture, dairying, veterinary problems, sheep, poutry, legal problems of the farm, home and household and Sunday school, also interesting miscellaneous departments by special writers, current events and comments, field notes on the live stock industry, and contributions by leading farmers, stockmen and experiment station workers on living questions related to the farm. The Homestead is one of the oldest farm journals in the United States, having been established fifty-three years ago. It has a circulation of 100,000, and its popularity with the lowa farmer is attested by the fact that it has more subscribers in Iowa alone than any other Des Moines agricultural weekly has in the states of the union combined.

The subscription price is $1.00 a year. Address
